FossXO Overview

James Richey

August 14, 2020

A casual game for all ages
Windows, Linux, and Mac
Coming Summer 2020

Game Summary

FossXO is a unique take on the classic game of tic-tac-toe. Players battle the computer or each other in a variety of stunning environments. Each environment tells part of the story of tic-tac-toe from the past, present, and future. Each environment has a strong visual theme and complementary soundtrack.

Game Outline

Tic-tac-toe is a game of strategy where two players, X and O, take turns placing their mark in a 3×3 grid. The first player to get three marks in a row, column, or diagonal wins the game. The game can also end in a draw, known as a ''cat's game,'' if all the free spaces are exhausted.
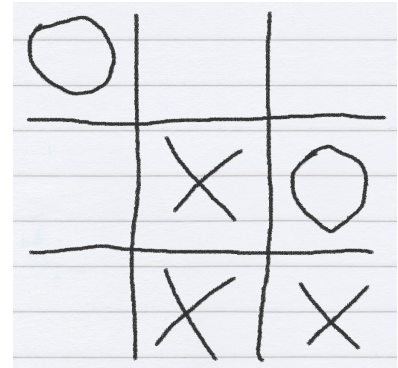

Players alternate who gets to make the first move in the game. Additionally, each game takes place in a different environment keeping players engaged.
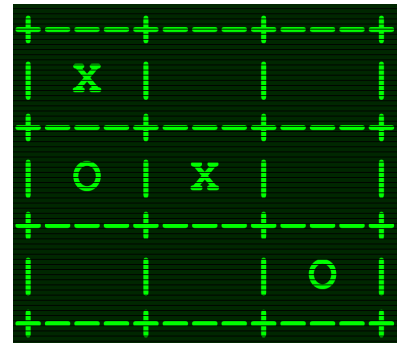

Unique Selling Points

- Over 20 beautiful environments including classic paper-and-pencil, modern computer screens, and futuristic cyber punk.
- Amazing soundtrack for a fully immersive experience.
- Challenging AI that is ready to counter any strategy.
- Battle your friends with local multiplayer.
- Try speedrun mode for an additional challenge.
- Free, open-source, and no annoying advertisements.

Similar Games

- OXO (1952) by Sandy Douglas
- Tic Tac Toe (2004) by James Richey
- Connect 4 (1974) by the Milton Bradley Company

Notebook paper

Early computer

Sidewalk

Neon lights